

Construction Site and COVID-19: Health and Safety Resources

June 4, 2020

By , , Megan Mah

We understand that your inbox, Twitter feed and the news are full of COVID-19 updates, articles and notices.

The recommendations and information about health and safety are being updated frequently and we appreciate that it is difficult to keep up to date, while still operating.

To assist with this, we have compiled a list of resources providing guidance on health and safety measures for construction sites. We will be updating this page at least weekly, but if you have suggestions for other resources to be added, please contact James De Melo.

If you have any questions as to how the information in these resources or COVID-19 may affect your construction site, please contact Faren Bogach or Paul Conrod. If you have any questions as to whether the specific steps you have already taken comply with your obligations under the Occupational Health and Safety Act or any other health and safety regulation, please contact Megan Mah.
